Perhaps the greatest individual loss in town due to last Friday evening's storm was that of Arthur V. Leavitt, whose carriage and farm implement barn, 30 by 40 feet, completely collapsed, damaging an automobile, several carriages and nearly every article stored in it. Mr. Leavitt had just come from the field to avoid the approaching storm and while he was putting up his horses in a barn north of the house, the carriage barn, on the opposite side of the house and hidden written Miss Margaret Donald:
